Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

MY good friend Edgar G. Harris, who used to own the Blytheville (Ark.) Courier News but who some years ago removed to West Point, Miss., seems to be prospering there also, for I see by this West Point Times Leader that he has just completed a "noise proof" editorial office.

Of which Mr. Harris writes as follows:

We are not so sure that the processes of our mental equipment will be speeded up, or that the editorial page of the paper will be materially improved.

Newspaper men become accustomed to noise and confusion, and often do their best work under circumstances which would prove annoying and distracting to those not accustomed to the daily grind.

Which reminds me I let myself in for some kidding when I moved the Star from its old quarters 2½ years ago into the building which it now owns and announced that the front office was "sound proof."

"A newspaper office?" retorted Brown Turner, of Nashville, Tenn.—"I doubt it!"

Brown, who used to be with me at El Dorado, and went from there to run the Telegraph at Washington, this county, went on to say:

"Boy, it was never the noise that used to 'get' me in the old El Dorado News office—it was that darn steepie-chase of cockroaches!"

A good "line" that—"steepie-chase of cockroaches."

And Mr. Harris is eminently correct: Noise never bothers a newspaper man half so much as a steepie-chase of cockroaches offering four or five newspaper men a bet as to whether five feet of editorial desk can be covered in 10 seconds flat!

Survey of No. 4 to Rosston Finished

CUTTING OF RIGHT-OF-WAY EXPECTED TO BEGIN SOON, CAMDEN REPORT

CAMDEN, Ark.—Survey of Highway No. 3 from the Nevada county line to Rosston has been completed and orders are awaited to start the work of cutting the right of way.

This 14-mile stretch is the only gap unfinished in the Camden-Hope highway.

The dump from the Greening farm west to the Nevada county line has not been graded but the contract will be awarded by the state soon. This project has been approved as one of the secondary jobs under the federal highway program.

Japan Resolved to Hold Onto Islands

Will Keep League-Mandated Area, While Demanding Naval Equality

TOKIO, Japan.—Vice Admiral Sankichi Takahashi, who Thursday succeeded Nobumasa Suetsugu as commander in chief of the combined Japanese fleet Friday expressed a firm determination to retain the South Sea mandated islands at whatever cost.

The new commander said the mandate, given Japan by the League of Nations over the Caroline, Caroline and Marshall Islands, formerly German possessions, after the war, is likely to come up at Geneva next year when Japan's withdrawal from the League becomes effective. He said the Japanese navy is ready forcefully to resist any attempt by the League to deprive Japan of the isles.

Discussing the naval conversations in London, Admiral Takahashi said:

Urges Civic Clubs to Encourage Aid for Free Schools

Vernon Whitten Reviews Plight of Both Schools and Teachers

HEAVY SALARY CUT

It Cripples Teachers' Research Study, He Tells Kiwanis Members

"What Kiwanis Can Do To Help Arkansas' Educational System" was the subject of a timely talk by Vernon Whitten at the regular Friday night meeting of the club at Hotel Barlow.

Mr. Whitten pointed out that Arkansas' schools have gone into a slump during the past few years due to the drastic curtailment in funds, and also, the teachers of the schools have not been able to keep up with the modern advancements in educational practices because of the severe cuts in salaries, preventing them from continuing their education during the vacation periods.

He particularly emphasized the fact that the rural schools were those most urgently in need of assistance, stating that educational facilities were supposed to be free to all and therefore should be equal for all. In other words, those attending the rural schools should have the same quality of schools and teachers as the urban communities.

Continuing his discussion on the school problem, Mr. Whitten suggested that the civic organizations band together to start the necessary legislation to assure adequate and equal educational opportunities for all. He stated that he believed the best plan would be the formation of a committee from members of the various organizations, to meet with members of the state legislature in Little Rock to work out and promote such a plan.

Following Mr. Whitten's talk there was a general round-table discussion of his plan, with all members present agreeing that some action should be taken immediately.

Announcement was made of the reappointment of Wayne England as the club's secretary for the coming year. It was also announced that Mrs. John W. Wellborn, well known musical director of Hope, had been secured as song leader for the club.

Wayne England will be in charge of the club's meeting next Friday night.

Battle Begun to Reorganize G. O. P.

BORAH'S DEMAND FOR LIBERALIZATION OPPOSED BY SENATOR REED

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A well-defined conflict has developed among those seeking to liberalize the Republican party, it was revealed Saturday.

One group, led by Senator Borah, is demanding reorganization and a new leadership.

The other group, less militant, believe liberalization can be effected by evolution, gradually, without use of the big stick.

Still another group, of which Senator Reed of Pennsylvania is one of the spokesmen, feels that the party needs no reorganization.

Strawn for C. of C.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Silas H. Strawn, Roosevelt administration critic, was chosen Saturday by the United States Chamber of Commerce to head a committee to co-operate with other business groups in drawing up a national recovery program for congress.

Strawn, former president of the chamber, has been generally accepted as leader of the chamber's Roosevelt foes.

Hope Team Sees Tigers in Action

Bobcats Give Next Opponents the "Once Over" Saturday Afternoon

Hope High School's football squad went to Little Rock early Saturday to see the Little Rock Tigers in action against Pine Bluff at Little Rock Saturday afternoon.

Little Rock is Hope's next opponent, coming to the local field at 1:30 o'clock next Saturday afternoon, November 24.

The boys were given transportation to Little Rock by a committee of Hope fans headed by A. C. Moreland, and including the following: Lyke Moore, Harold Porterfield, Hollis Luck, Terrell Councilman and Harry Moore.

Tickets for the boys were procured by the high school athletic committee.

Bulletins

The agreement will be embodied in a report to be presented to the special assembly of the league next week.

Acreage Will Be Larger for 1935

Reduction of 35-45 % This Year Eased Off to Only 25 % Next Year

Balanced production against demand and maintenance of such a balance are the objectives of the cotton adjustment program.

That this is the chief aim, is reflected in the Administration's decision to increase the 1935 cotton acreage on the basis of the 1934 voluntary cotton contract over that of 1934, according to Frank R. Stanley, county agent.

A reduction of 35 per cent, and not over 45 per cent, is called for in the 1934 contract, and curtailment for 1935 will not exceed 25 per cent of the 1934-35 base acreage, AAA officials have stated. In reality this means an increase in cotton acreage for 1935 over 1934.

Due to the large supply of American cotton which amounted to 26 million bales in the 1932-33 season, the cotton adjustment program has necessarily been one of reduction for the first 18 months because curtailed production could not be accomplished in any other way. During the time the cotton adjustment program has been in operation, a 6 million bale reduction has been effected.

Periods of low cotton prices are the natural results of an inadequate system of production, a matter largely of one producer trying to outguess his neighbor. High prices for cotton have consistently invited increased acreages in following years, which have resulted in lowered standards of living for farm owners, tenants, and share croppers, because of the depressing effects of a large crop had on the price for cotton.

Under the cotton adjustment program—a partnership between growers and their Government—there will be years of increased or decreased acreage, but these adjustments will always be made with the view toward maintaining a balance of production in accordance with effective demands.

More labor will be needed to produce the 1935 cotton crop than was needed in the production of the 1934 crop, due to the increased acreage that will be permitted under the 1935 contract.

After all, Mr. Stanley stated, the purpose of the cotton production adjustment program is to maintain an adequate supply of American cotton for all buyers at a reasonable price, not too low for profitable returns to growers and not so high as to unduly stimulate competition.

Cancellation Expected on 200,000 Pounds of Arkansas Cotton

LITTLE ROCK.—Cancellation of surplus tax exemption certificates issued to Arkansas producers under the Bankhead act for at least 200,000 pounds of cotton is possible, E. D. White, chairman of the state Cotton Allotment Board, said Friday night on his return from an inspection trip through northeast Arkansas cotton producing counties with L. H. Gunter, assistant manager of the national certificate pool.

"I was astonished at the number and extent of violations in handling of surplus tax exemption certificates which we found," Mr. White said. "Apparently the greater part of the violations began in October, and instances were found in which certificates were bought and sold as low as one and one-half cents per pound in direct violation of the Bankhead law."

"I had no idea that such violations were taking place on a large scale in Arkansas, and, in view of the extensive efforts made to acquaint growers and producers with the necessity for handling surplus certificates according to regulations, it is difficult to understand this widespread practice."

Mr. Gunter came from Washington to investigate charges of irregular handling of surplus tax exemption certificates which had reached the Cotton Section of the AAA and Mr. White accompanied him this week on

Mrs. Roosevelt's Autographed Seal to Be Auctioned

To Be Feature of Christmas Seal Sale in 10 Arkansas Cities

DRIVE BEGINS 29TH

Thanksgiving Day Will Usher in Tuberculosis Relief Campaign

The state-wide Christmas Seal Sale sponsored each year by the Arkansas Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated agencies will be launched officially at noon Thursday, November 22, Thanksgiving Day, when 10 sets of 100 seals each, personally autographed by Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, are delivered to the mayors of 10 Arkansas cities.

Miss Erie Chambers, executive secretary of the state Tuberculosis Association, received a telegram Friday from Senator Hattie W. Caraway in Washington informing her that Mrs. Roosevelt had autographed the Seals and that they had been placed in the mails for delivery at the state tuberculosis office in Little Rock early this week.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Autograph

"I am delighted to know the Seals are on the way," Miss Chambers said. "I was not surprised when Mrs. Caraway informed me Mrs. Roosevelt had so graciously autographed our Seals because she has always shown a keen interest in any movement to better humanity. Her autograph will certainly enhance the value of the Seals sold this year."

Miss Chambers announced that one set of the Seals autographed by the first lady of the land will be delivered to each of the following cities: Little Rock, Fort Smith, Pine Bluff, Hot Springs, El Dorado, Texarkana, Jonesboro, Blytheville, Helena and Camden.

Hope just missed this, being the 11th city in size. O. A. Graves is Hempstead county chairman.

The towns were chosen on the basis of population according to 1933 figures.

A Public Auction

Seal sale chairmen in each of the 10 towns have been notified by the state office that the autographed Seals will not be sent to them unless they guarantee to hold an auction in a public place as a theater to guarantee to obtain a minimum amount for the autographed seals set by the state office, in proportion to the town's population.

The Seals autographed by Mrs. Roosevelt will not only add to the interest in the state Seal Sale this year, but they will be valuable themselves, and much more so in 10 or 20 years to stamp collectors, signature collectors and other connoisseurs," Miss Chambers pointed out.

"The method of delivering the Seals to the mayors of the 10 key cities will be announced this week," Miss Chambers said.

Twenty-five manuscripts have been received in the annual Joe M. Frank short story contest which closed Thursday, Miss Chambers said. The manuscripts will be judged immediately and the winner of the $25 prize will be announced December 1.

Housing Repairs Begun in Camden

$37,000 Worth Already Accomplished in Ouachita City

LITTLE ROCK.—The house-to-house canvass to explain the housing program and discuss repair and modernization problems with property owners, has been completed by the Camden Better Housing Campaign Committee, under the chairmanship of G. B. Smith, Hal L. Norwood, state director of the Federal Housing Administration, announced here Saturday.

The first canvass will be followed up with a second canvass soon to explain the campaign in more detail and point out additional modernization projects which come under the housing program.

Since September 1, repair and modernization jobs amounting to $37,000 have been completed and started in Camden. Approximately 80 per cent of this work has been done on a cash basis from the impetus supplied through the housing campaign.

The program has met with very favorable response, Mr. Smith reported. Many inquiries have been received and new jobs are being started every day, he said. Banks in Camden are co-operating.

Advisory, building trades, loans and public committees have been organized. In connection with the house-to-house canvass, the Building Trades Committee is holding regular meetings.

As cards continue to come in from Arkansas parents who desire to aid in the drive to improve birth registration, field men and social workers in all parts of the state are contacting parents who have failed to return cards for their babies born during the past twelve months.

These cards may be obtained through postoffices, local health and social service organizations and the State Board of Health at Little Rock.

Barn Hid Ransom Notes

Nearly $4000 in tell-tale bills—marked ransom money paid to the kidnapers of Charles F. Ulrich—was uncovered by federal agents in this ramshackle barn on the Alvin H. Scott place near Roseburg, Ore. Scott first was linked to the case when, after he had been injured in an automobile accident, $1300 in "hot" money allegedly was found in his possession. Additional ransom bills were discovered in a well on the grounds.

Mrs. W. F. James Is Struck by Auto

Woman Injured by Oil Truck at Fourth and Hervey Streets

Mrs. W. Fay James was confined to her home here Saturday as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon at Fourth and Hervey streets.

She is suffering from an injured side, small gash on the foot and a bruised right shoulder. Her injuries are not believed serious.

The car she was driving was struck by a pick-up truck owned by Loreco Oil company and driven by Manuel Johnson, negro employee.

The James car turned over on its side. After the crash, the truck traveled a few yards farther, striking a telephone pole. Conflicting stories were told as to the cause of the accident.

New Fight Begun for Shank's Life

Attorneys May Carry Appeal to Supreme Court for Third Time

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Another court fight to save Mark H. Shank from the electric chair for the picnic poisoning of four, was mapped Saturday by attorneys after Prisoner Superintendent S. L. Todhunter for the second time refused a sanity hearing petition.

Attorneys said they would appeal to Jefferson circuit court, and in the event of an adverse decision would take the case back to the supreme court for the third time.

Meanwhile Governor Futrell was asked to defer the setting of a new execution date, pending the outcome of the legal process.

Final Drive for Census of Babies

Outlying Districts of State to Be Covered Intensively

LITTLE ROCK.—Various outlying districts through Arkansas are scheduled to receive intensive work in Arkansas' first "Register Your Baby" campaign, which has been conducted for the past six weeks by the Federal Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health and the Arkansas Emergency Relief Administration.

As cards continue to come in from Arkansas parents who desire to aid in the drive to improve birth registration, field men and social workers in all parts of the state are contacting parents who have failed to return cards for their babies born during the past twelve months.

These cards may be obtained through postoffices, local health and social service organizations and the State Board of Health at Little Rock.

U. S. Doubtful of Long's Anti-Debt Laws in Louisiana

Public Works Administration Delays 2½ Million Dollar Advance

CHAIN STORE QUILTS

National Cigar Withdraws as a Chain Store Tax Protest

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—Senator Long's utopian legislation was weighed in the balance Saturday by the Public Works Administration (PWA).

The PWA announced that 2½ million dollars ready to be delivered to the sewerage and water board of New Orleans as a public improvement loan would be held up pending study by its legal department of legislation passed at the Louisiana special session which closed Friday.

Meanwhile, Fred Metzler, manager of the Schulte National Cigar store chain, announced that three of his four stores in New Orleans would be closed, releasing 10 employees because of chain store tax legislation passed at the special session.

The fourth store will continue because of liquor business profits, Metzler said.

Metzler said Long was responsible for the closing of the three stores.

Ladies' Night for Rotary on Tuesday

Football Discussion Dissolves in Wave of Heckling and Laughter

The Rev. Fred R. Harrison, new pastor of First Methodist church, was guest speaker at the Hope Rotary club's luncheon Friday in Hotel Barlow.

The club heard plans outlined for the annual ladies' night program Tuesday, to be featured by a hay-ride and wiper roast if the weather is fair.

Roy Anderson, of the high school athletic committee, asked Rotarians to emphasize the fact that the Little Rock football game scheduled for the local field this coming week will be played Saturday afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock. This will allow local stores to send part of their staffs to the game, before the heaviest business of the day sets in during late afternoon.

Club members "razed" Mr. Anderson because there were too few native Hope boys on the 1934 team. Mr. Anderson "cracked" back that if Hope family men don't raise more boys (than the Rotarians do) they're mostly girls, it seems) Hope, never would have a native football team.

After that the hecklers let Mr. Anderson strictly alone—in a gale of laughter.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

It's At Five that Life Has Real Beginning

The five-year-old child stands on the threshold of life. The help and advice of its parents may determine the success or failure of its entire character.

At this period the five-year-old is likely to leave the home to enter kindergarten or school. He should be able by this time to walk alone, to be able to climb a fair amount of stairs, to run and climb without too much danger, and to avoid trouble when it is near.

He should be able to get a drink for himself, to go to the toilet when he needs to, and to wash his hands afterwards without being told about it each time.

The five-year-old child should also know how to hang up his own coat and hat and to clean up his play things after he has finished with them.

The very simple lessons of hygiene that every five-year-old child should know include such matters as putting on, washing and taking off his clothes, to play and taking off his shoes, to drink and eat after other people, and to keep his hands clean and his fingers and play things in his mouth.

The child of five years of age has to learn how to get along with other people. It must understand the necessity of giving up what belongs to others.

It should understand the right of the teacher to tell it what to do, and it should also respect the authority of policemen and other responsible officials.

Children of five years want to tell about their new experiences. They should be given every opportunity to describe what they see and hear even though these things may not seem to be of importance to the parents. By this means the child learns proper use of language and expression.

Children of this age frequently make believe and tell stories that seem rather tall, but with proper training this is the age when they can be taught the distinction between truth and falsehood.

The food needs of the child at five need careful attention. Breakfast is of the utmost importance, because it determines the extent to which the child may become fatigued during the day.

The sleep program of the child must also be arranged in relationship to school. If the child has dropped its midday nap, it should go to bed early in order to get its full sleep quota.

However, even in kindergarten, the child may take a midday rest, because the growing child needs rest at that time. Most kindergarten and nursery schools have only a half-day period.

Hobbies Aided By Books
Hobbies are the most important activity of children. There are numerous books about a multitude of hobbies, and in this fifth article of her series, Olive Roberts Barton lists a few volumes dealing with special subjects.

To Anne Carroll Moore, dean of critics on children's books, and authority on all manner of reading for children, am I indebted for the information contained in these two-days' lists on hobbies.

The endless research and work she has done on the subject is, I consider, one of the greatest undertakings yet done in children's literature, compiling books of information on almost every subject dear to the heart from camp collecting to marionettes.

Only a fraction of books can be mentioned, as the subject is a big one.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Working Girl Must Plan Time-Saving Routine

The business girl—if she is to be a social as well as a professional success—must learn to budget her time outside the office. When she leaves her office at five, she must know how to dash home, bathe, make up, dress and be ready to greet her escort with a calm, smiling face when he arrives at seven.

Men, generally speaking, hate nervousness and confusion. Many a beau has lost interest in an attractive girl simply because she always kept him waiting while she finished dressing, greeted him with a distracted glance and seemed to spend most of the evening being upset over something she forgot to put in her bag. Let this be a warning. Plan your getting ready to go out in the evening routine rather carefully and stick to it.

Deceive the Ducks, and Ten Kill 'Em—Here's Book for Hunters, on Making of Decoys

For the average sportsman, who likes to hunt ducks but finds the purchase of expensive decoys to lure the birds within reach of his gun a load his purse won't bear, Joel Barber has written a useful book in "Wild Fowl Decoys."

Knowing little of ducks or duck-hunting myself, I submitted this book to Jimmy Donahue, sports writer whose articles on hunting and fishing are read all across the country; and he reports as follows:

The first part of this book is devoted to the technical and historical background of the decoy, and while interesting enough does not give the hunter any very valuable pointers. However, after a few chapters of this Mr. Barber gets down to cases.

He tells, for instance, just how to construct decoys, how to weight them so that they will ride naturally in the water, what materials to use in the manufacture of the "Juddases" which are to lead the pintails, broadbills, redheads, teal, mallards, coot, brant and so on to the slaughter. Numerous diagrams make the task of construction relatively easy.

Mr. Barber admits that he has made

The day following MORDEN's death CATHAY dies of poisoning. GRIFF learns MORDEN had visited the apartment of ALICE LORTON, pretty and mysterious. He confronts ALICE with KENNETH BOONE, accused the pair of killing MORDEN, and they are arrested.

MRS. BLANCHÉ MALONE, for whom MRS. CATHAY and CARL FAYNE, detective in her employ, have been searching, is located but refuses to talk.

GRIFF and BLEEKER go to the hotel where MARY BRIGGS, known as Stella Mackley, is staying. They find CHARLES FISHER, CATHAY's lawyer, there. The girl tells them that the man who impersonated CATHAY was PETE MALONE and that he frequently telephoned FRANK BLISS, CATHAY's chauffeur.

FISHER explains to GRIFF and BLEEKER his theory of CATHAY's death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIX
GRIFF nodded to the lawyer "You tell him," he said.

Fisher turned, facing Bleeker. "At the time the check was cashed," he said, speaking slowly and with grave emphasis, "the plot, whatever it was, was about to culminate. This man, Malone, knew that CATHAY would not be in a position to make any complaint. In other words, he had anticipated the death of Frank B. CATHAY. In which event the canceled check with the forged signature would be found among his effects. A check-up of the hotel register would show that CATHAY was registered there that night; that the man who had cashed the check had exhibited documentary evidence showing he was the real Frank CATHAY. Of course this matter would not come up until months after CATHAY's death."

"The attorneys representing the Malone claim, whatever its nature, would demand that the estate produce all documents and vouchers which were in its possession. This canceled check could not have been destroyed because it would have come into the possession of CATHAY before his death. It would, therefore, make an excellent demonstration of the genuineness of the forged signature."

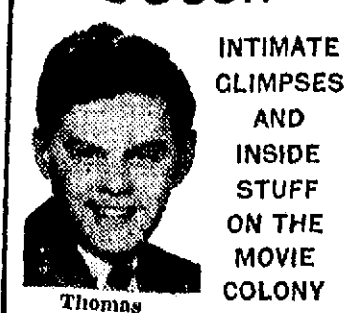

"And what," asked Bleeker, "is the nature of this claim that Malone is to make?"

"I wish I knew," Fisher said. "I can surmise and I can suspect but my obligations to my client, gentlemen, prevent me from communicating my suspicions or my surmises. It even goes so far as to seal my lips upon facts, save such facts as I believe I may communicate without detriment to my client."

GRIFF stared in fixed concentration at the patterned carpet of the hotel hallway.

"I think," he said slowly, "that I see what you have in mind. 'I am quite sure you do,' Fisher said readily enough, 'but I cannot

Claudette Colbert Prefers Talent to Beauty

Claudette Colbert writes your Hollywood gossip today, as second in the list of 12 film favorites who are pinch-hitting for Dan Thomas during his vacation.

By CLAUDETTE COLBERT

Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.

For years, I've envied newspaper writers. I seemed such an easy job compared with having to stand under the hot lights on a stuffy stand since all day, wearing heavy costumes and to wiggle one's eyebrows to the tune of a gridding camera.

But now, I admit that I have been wrong. After this feeble effort at columnizing, I think I'll go back to acting and consider myself very lucky. How a columnist can sit down at a typewriter, day after day, and think of what to write about, is beyond me. (Confidentially, I have been sitting here for hours, wondering how to start.)

Ubiquitous Dan
I do want to turn the tables on a newspaperman and, therefore, Dan Thomas must be the victim. I want to tell you something about him. He is the most persistent reporter I've ever known. If he wants a story, I have found that it is better to cancel all luncheon, dinner and evening engagements and resign myself to my fate. Because, if I don't Dan pops up under tables, hides behind hat-check girls, comes in disguise as an iceman—anything to remind me that I haven't given him the interview yet. Out here, we call him the ubiquitous Mr. Thomas. (I had to look up the word, too—it means ever-present.)

Beauty Requires Talent, Too
This is a good chance to refute one of Dan's stories about me. (I told you that you never should have let me get hold of this column, Dan.) He was kind enough to call me "the most beautiful woman in motion pictures." Frankly, I'm not too flattered about my beauty. I have no illusions and I know it! I'd much rather be known as the best actress or the best personality or something like that.

In the hairdressing shops, the beauty parlors, the department stores, the restaurants here in Hollywood, I have been waited on by girls whom I consider really beautiful. And many a time I've whispered to myself: "Good, I wish I were as beautiful as she," only to have the girl say to me: "I'd give anything to change places with you, Miss Colbert."

My answer is always the same—it's no trick to get ahead in any business you happen to follow, as long as you go at it right. After all, I worked hard in the theater to learn something of the technique of acting, and that is how I got my opportunity in pictures.

I am afraid too many girls forget that movies are exactly like the stage business or like dancing, for that matter. You have to know what you're doing, first. And beauty alone is no longer enough—you have to be able to prove that you have developed that talent by hard experience in the theater before the studios will look twice at you.

Popcorn Eater
I start work this week on my next picture, "The Gilded Lily." And it's the first picture in which I'll be able to eat what I really like—popcorn! Sounds silly, doesn't it? But popcorn plays an important part and we're trying now to find the best corn popper in the city, so that I can be sure it'll be buttered and salted all over. To a popcorn connoisseur, that is very important. I told Wesley Ruggles, the director of "The Gilded Lily," that unless the popcorn was perfect, I'd take time off from the scenes to pop it myself. He isn't taking any chances, so I'll probably be eating excellent popcorn when you see the picture.

Thanks for the Compliments
Not knowing the ethics of columnizing, I'm going to take this opportunity of Dan's space to thank all the kind persons who wrote to me after seeing "It Happened One Night" and "Cleopatra." Frankly, anyone likes to know that her efforts have pleased and entertained those who go to see her pictures. Entertainment, after all, is the prime reason for the existence of our pictures—and it gratifies me to know that you have liked my work. It gives me a happy feeling as I start in "The Gilded Lily."

Until Next Year
Perhaps next year, Dan Thomas again will give me a chance to meet you thus, almost face to face, for a newspaper is the most personal medium of expression I know. Until then, adieu!

Night is the time when Nature prays. And sings to God in sacred lays. The oak in silence stands in prayer. As breezes blow its leafy hair. The marshland lay gives praise to Him. In humble note from cypress limb. The cricket hidden beneath a clod. With cymbals beats a chant to God. —Selected.

Fredric March and Charles Laughton in Season's Great Hit

If you wish to see what will undoubtedly be chosen as one of the ten best pictures of the year, hurry to the Saenger Sunday and relax in the lavender and old lace of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," new film starring Norma Shearer.

The cast includes some of the greatest names of filmdom, headed by three winners of the Motion Picture Academy Award: Norma Shearer, Fredric March and Charles Laughton. The romantic team's beautiful presentation of an idyllic love story is all the more accentuated by the diabolical character Charles Laughton makes of the older Barrett.

Never was Miss Shearer more beautiful or charming, nor March more ardent, nor Laughton more fascinatingly Laughton. The supporting players hold their own, even with these experts of dramatics. They are Maureen O'Sullivan, Ralph Forbes, Una O'Connor.

Verger and Spa Battle to a Tie

Hope Marches to Visitors' 10-Yard Line—But Touchdown Fails

Verger High School Tigers fought a stubborn Hot Springs negro football team to a scoreless tie here Friday afternoon at Verger athletic park.

Hope threatened in the first few minutes of play, marching to the 10-yard line where the Tigers lost the ball after four incomplete passes.

The second period was played near midfield with the local team having a slight edge.

The two teams reversed the field. Hope put up a determined fight and held for downs. When the Tiger punter attempted to kick out of danger the ball sailed high into the air. It was grounded on the Hope 25-yard line.

Hot Springs completed several short passes to move the ball up to the Tiger's 10-yard line. The scoring threat ended when Nelson, Tiger right-half, intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards.

A. A. U. Leaves Skippy Squad of Paddlers to Paddle Own Canoes

Clyde Swendsen, instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic club, calls attention to the fact that our swimmers are being neglected.

Come to think of it, records no longer are cracked with each edition of a newspaper.

Swendsen charges that the dear old Amateur Athletic Union is showing no interest whatever in the development of paddlers. And he adds that, unless the badge wearing department perks up along this line in the year to come, these United States will be woefully lacking in aquatic talent when the next Olympic Games roll around in 1936.

The Japanese won last trip despite their being under-sized.

"I can't remember when swimming was given a little attention," says Swendsen. "The A. A. U. apparently was disregarded the sport. The national championships is the only meet arranged. There isn't money enough to send swimmers around for outside competition, and what few meets we have are sponsored by private promotion."

"Right now you can name our top flight men swimmers on the fingers of one hand. Outside of Jack Medina, of Washington; Jimmy Gihula and Gene Fletcher, of Southern California; Ficks, of New York; and Boals, of the Hollywood A. C., what prominent ones are there?

"Elinore Knight and the comparative veterans, Eleanor Holm and Dorothy Poynton, are the only hopes in the women's events. Margaret Peedy, of Washington, may develop, but it appears that America will have few new stars to bank upon. And a lot the A. A. U. seems to care."

All of which should stir up the badge wearing department.

Sheriff Gibbons

Tommy Gibbons is the new sheriff of Ramsey county, Minnesota. The good people of St. Paul could not have chosen a more honorable one.

Gibbons never received half the credit to which he was entitled for his brilliant 15-round stand against Jack Dempsey at Shelby in 1923.

After so skillfully fencing his way through the tight spots of the closing rounds, not a few critics were unkind enough to hint that the Man Mauler carried him. This despite the fact that the slightest acquaintance of Dempsey knew he couldn't pack his brother.

A hundred savage punches whistled by Gibbons' whiskers that would have knocked the younger brother off the Phantom out of the oil fields had they found parking space.

The Dempsey-Gibbons fight was one of the most picturesque ever staged—the last of the old kind, with the challenger fighting for nothing more than the crack at the crown in an out-of-the-way place.

The Dempsey duel was strictly Gibbons' own. His manager, the late Eddie Kane, advised against it. No fighter ever was more certain that he would win.

And he might have, had he gotten away from a straight right that came in Dempsey's opening burst of fire.

"I saw it coming, but wasn't in position to pull away," explained Gibbons. "All I could do was drop my head and take it on the forehead. I have only a hazy remembrance of what took place in the first four rounds."

There were many sweet stories in connection with the strange presentation at Shelby. Gibbons kissed his small sons goodby perhaps being the sweetest.

The Gibbons family lived in a little cottage not far from the arena pitched out there on the Montana plain.

The youngsters were playing in the yard when the challenger started for the scene of battle.

"Where are you going, daddy?" asked little Jack while embraced in a bear-like hug.

"Oh, I'm just going to run over there and fight Dempsey. I'll be right back," replied his fighting father.

So many young zealots have just been elected to congress, the older Democrats there may be in for a "liberal" education.
